BUDGET airline AirAsia X has placed a firm order with Airbus for 55 A330neo air-

This is the largest single order to date for the best-selling A330 Family and reaffirms AirAsia X's position as the biggest A330 airline customer worldwide, having now ordered a total of 91 aircraft.

The announcement covers the firming up of a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) for 50 A330neo signed during the Farnborough Air Show in July 2014, plus an additional five aircraft.

Deliveries of the newly-ordered aircraft will begin in 2018.

The deal is worth around $15bn(£10bn) at list prices and further secures jobs at the wing manufacturing plant in Broughton.

John Leahy, Chief Operating Officer, Customers, Airbus, said: "This order from AirAsia X is a major endorsement of the A330neo as the most cost-efficient aircraft

Budget airline £10bn deal for 55 Airbus planes

"With the A330neo in its fleet, AirAsia X will benefit from even lower operating costs as it expands it network and reach, enabling more people to fly further more often than ever before.

"We look forward to AirAsia X becoming one of the first operators of the latest version of the highly successful A330."

Tan Sri Tony Fernandes, Co-Founder and Director of AirAsia X, said: "This latest deal with Airbus will enable AirAsia X to consolidate its growth rate in 2015-2017 before ramping up deliveries from 2018

"The A330 has proven itself to be exactly the right aircraft for our business model, combining low operating costs, long range flying capability and high levels of comfort. We are extremely excited about the even greater levels of efficiency that will come with the A330neo, which will play a key role in enabling AirAsia X to maintain its position as the long haul low cost leader."

Building on the proven economics, versatility and reliability of the A330ceo, the A330neo will incorporate latest generation Rolls-Royce Trent 7000 engines, aerodynamic enhancements and new cabin fea-

These advances will make the aircraft the most cost-efficient in its size category, with a reduction in fuel consumption of 14% per seat, an increase in non-stop flying range of up to 400 nautical miles and the lowest possible maintenance costs.

Career project fits like a glove for school pupils

CAREERS Wales has teamed up with Big Ideas Wales Role Model Tim Penn and Flintshire high school Connah's Quay for a series of engaging employer led enterprise workshops.

workshops designed to improve the link between businesses and education, by utilising the creative potential of students.

Glove company Signature Leather and talented pupils from the high school partnered up in a scheme that saw the teenagers develop their own leather gloves in a project led by Connah's Quay teachers Caroline Sims and Eleri Jones.

Miss Sims said, "This has been a very exciting project for Textiles teacher.

'The learners who were involved in the project gained a lot from this experience that they will be able to take away with them for future interviews for college, jobs interviews and university places. The designs that the pupils produced were all commercially viable, which company while we get the

the learners and myself as their Pupils from Connah's Quay High School who took part in the enterprise workshop was an achievement in itself."

Tim Penn, founder of Signature Leather, which specialises in producing gloves by hand, said: "This is of benefit to both the pupils and the company.

The pupils get the experience of working with a real live opportunity to tap into the creative brains of young people studying design in school.

'Young people can come up with fresh ideas and designs that have not been thought of. The ideas they create can go forward as prototypes and eventually into production as part of the Signature Collection and distributed world-wide."

Suzanne Metcalfe, area manager for Careers Wales said: "We really believe that employer engagement is key for pupils of this age; they really seem to
